NEGRO MURDERER

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

"Possum" Rout Tries to Hang Himself in Jail—Examining Trial Is Waived.

John Harris Rout, the one-armed negro murderer of Clay Drye, also colored, waived examining trial before County Judge Bailey in the County Court Thursday and was held to await the action of the grand jury, without bond. There was a big crowd in the court room when the case was called. Judge Bailey appointed Attorney J. S. Owsley to look after Rout's interests, though the latter said he had spoken to Attorney G. D. Florence to represent him but Mr. Florence was not present.

Rout seemed very nervous in the courtroom, and is said to be greatly scared over the prospects of going to the electric chair. The fate of Slay Penman, whose body was brought back scared and burned, seems to have affected the negroes generally.

Two nights ago, Rout made an effort to hang himself in his cell in the jail by using a torn blanket, but Jailer Farmer caught him at it and prevented him.

Coroner George P. Bright held an inquest over the remains of Clay Drye, colored, Monday afternoon a short while after he was killed by John Harris Rout, another negro.

The witnesses at the inquest gave a description of what is probably the worst killing that has occurred in Lincoln county in many years. Will Loveless testified that Drye was in the house of Green Hansford and had gotten him (Loveless) to bandage his arm, which had been injured a few days previous by a horse's kick. Drye started to leave the house and as he started from the door a shot rang out and Drye staggered down the steps. Loveless ran to the door and saw Rout reloading his shot gun, and before he could interfere, Rout fired again and Drye fell to the ground expiring instantly.

John Kennedy, another negro, standing a short distance from the scene of the murder and heard Rout say as he approached: "I am going to kill the nigger." No one had heard of any quarrel between Rout and Drye. If this character of testimony is given when Rout's trial comes, it seems that the electric chair will be called into use.

KILLED BY TRAIN.

Prominent Austrian Farmer Loses His Life at Junction City.

Junction City, Ky., Oct. 5.—While attempting to cross the tracks of the L. & N. R. R. Friday afternoon, Mr. John Schmidt, of this place, was struck by the engine of the "turn around" train which bore a heavy train from Lexington to Cozart, and fatally injured. He lived about an hour. Mr. Schmidt was born in Vienna, Austria, about 71 years ago and had been in this country for about 25 years. When fodder from one of his farms to the other.

His funeral was preached at the Catholic church on Sunday by Father Leo, of Ottemheim. The church was filled to overflowing with Catholics and Protestants alike. Many beautiful and costly floral offerings completely covered his coffin. His interment in the churchyard of the Catholic Church in the knobs followed the funeral. Mr. Schmidt had many friends and had accumulated considerable of this world's goods. He was a director in the First State Bank, of this place, and was considered an upright gentleman. Four sons survive him, two of whom reside in Cincinnati, one in Somerset and one here. He is also survived by his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Brown, of Parksville, stopped over with their daughter, Mrs. J. H. Hanks, on their way home from Lexington.

Charley Cosby has succeeded Harry Wilson as assistant agent of the L. & N. Mr. Wilson will perfect himself in telegraphy, which he has been studying for some time.

In a collision on this road Thursday he was painfully wounded about the head. Mr. Robert Grubbs returned Sunday evening and reported that his son's condition was much better.

WHAT WILL THEY DO

To Give City Relief From Blind Tigers?—Opposition Ticket

Just as the I. J. went to press Thursday it learns that the following gentlemen have been induced to make the race for Councilmen in opposition to the Law and Order ticket. They are:

James McElree,
M. D. Elmore,
C. C. Gooch,
Tom Pence,
J. R. Powell,
Frank Rout.

These gentlemen are all well known and prominent citizens. The I. J. cannot bring itself to believe that they are willing for the present condition of blind tigers and lawlessness to continue. Its columns are freely opened to them to say what they will do to give the city relief, if they intend to make such an effort.

Reports are heard about town that some of the ardent wets who have hopes of saloons carrying in the election to come later, are stating that the Law and Order ticket, if elected, would endeavor to fix a prohibitory license, if saloons were voted in. Those who have talked this question over, with the Law and Order candidates for Councilmen, say, however, that this ticket would undoubtedly stand for a $1,000 license fee, were saloons to be voted, this being the amount which is paid in the big majority of cases where saloons are open in the small towns of the state; and it is understood that this is the sum which the wets would advocate as the proper license, were saloons voted back.

J. K. BAUGHMAN HURT

J. K. Baughman, one of the most prominent farmers of the West End had five teeth knocked loose and his tongue badly cut when a horse he was riding ran under a strand of barbed wire on his place Thursday morning. Mr. Baughman was not noticing closely the way in front and the horse was under the wire before Mr. Baughman could save himself. Dr. T. W. Pennington, of this city left hurriedly to see what damage had been done to the teeth while other physicians in the West End were dressing the other injuries, which while not serious, are quite painful.

A Remarkable Man.

Blaise Pascal—1623-1662—was one of the most remarkable men that the race has produced. His greatness was many sided, like that of Leonardo da Vinci, next to whom perhaps he is entitled to rank from the standpoint of intellectual brilliancy. He was a master of style, and his subject covered about the whole field of mental activity. Great as a dreamer of rich and splendid dreams, he was also supremely great as a logician and mathematician, as a natural philosopher and scientific discoverer. He died at the age of thirty-nine after having been sick all his life, and yet the fragments of his genius will serve to make his name as immortal as the human race itself.

W. M. Marshall, one of the assistant mail carriers between Hazard and Jackson, supposed to have been murdered after a mail sack was rifled was arrested in Ohio last night and is said to have made a confession.

DANDRUFF AND ITCHING SCALP YIELD TO ZEMO TREATMENT.

McKECHNIE'S SUCCESSOR

To Be Named by Governor and Fiscal Court Becomes Republican.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the successor to the late Squire Jas. McKechnie, who will have to be appointed by Governor Wilson, and of course, will undoubtedly be a republican. There are two announced applicants for the magistrature's place, and the friends of both are said to be getting up petitions in their behalf. The two men are former Magistrate A. C. Carman, of the Danville pike, and Hart Lane, of the Hubble section, both well known republicans. Mr. Carman served as magistrate of Lincoln county a number of years ago, and made a good record. Mr. Lane is a very prominent and popular farmer of his section.

Just whom the local republican organization will endorse, is not known, but it is safe to say he will not be anyone who was identified with the "Lily White" faction in the recent county convention.

With the appointment of the new magistrate, the fiscal court will be republican in political complexion, having been evenly divided with two republicans and two democrats for a number of years. An election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Squire McKechnie cannot be held until November 1912.

As this is the only point in this part of the state in which he can be heard, the courthouse will undoubtedly be taxed to its capacity to hear him. The speaking will begin promptly at half past seven o'clock. Mr. Underwood is closely in touch with the great wave of democratic progressiveness which is sweeping over the country, and he will give a close and inside view of the political outlook for 1912 and tell of the importance of Kentucky leading the way by returning a splendid democratic majority this year.

President Taft is in a heart-to-heart talk with the leaders of the different republican functions in Illinois pledged guilty to being a very poor politician, acknowledged again that his ambition had lain in the direction of the office of Chief Justice rather than the presidency, and admitted he had made many mistakes, but that he tried to do what he thought was right.

Coffee to Relieve Fatigue. The question is sometimes asked: What will relieve fatigue more quickly than anything else? Clerks in stores and men generally as well as women shoppers become at times very tired. Fortunately the British army has thrashed the question out, and tried every kind of decoction that could be thought of, and we may profit by their experience. They award the palm to coffee, and declare it has neither superior nor equal for this purpose.
